

How Fortunes Can Turn in an instant

By Maciej Duraj

YouTue Script Idea

Characters Legend:

Arek: Main character and a young man of 20 years old looking for belonging and purpose in this world while drifting through life in uncertainty. His parents died in a car accident ten years ago.

Ann: His girlfriend (sort of negative to him or doesn't believe in him bringing him down at first)

Nedved : The dying old man who has no one to pass his will onto

---

Script Start

Arek (narrating the story not talking out loud to himself or anyone, but to the viewer right here): Another day of drinking and crying to myself about how miserable and lonely my existence is. I have no parents as they died in a car accident ten years ago and am just going through the monotony of life... Just daily motions at this point while I often say outloud how I hope to just disappear.

Arek: Today is the day it happened. It is the day that started and felt as mundane as any only to turn out to be the best day of my life and the day my luck changed.

Arek: Before I go on and tell you why this day was so special for me and how it taught me to value life and myself no matter how down life can be at the moment, hit the subscribe button for more of such stories.

Arek (he is talking aloud here not just to himself and the viewer): Even if I disappear nobody will miss me or care. I have no one except people who bring me down. Everything I ever built failed and now look at me. At only 20 years old I can barely hold a job together and live out of my car. My girlfriend hasn't seen me in a week after our last big fight and threatened to break up with me while I suspect she is cheating on me with my ex best friend.

Arek (continues talking aloud now): However, tonight is a different night. Tonight is the night it all happened... The night my life finally changed and I had finally a goal to reach or a mountain to climb, so to speak. I finally found purpose and meaning to my life. Tonight, I found out I will be running a business and trying to infiltrate a rival's firm ahead of this.

Arek: Wow what are you doing there fellow. Are you alright?

Nedved: I am alive at least for now. It is nice to see someone care about an old man for once. Do you know how many people saw me in this state and just ended up passing by?

Arek: Are you alright? What happened to you?

Nedved: I am sick and had one of those moments 20 minutes ago where I just passed out for a short while and here I am.

Arek: So you've been down for 20 minutes now?

Nedved: Yep. I am dying and no one seems to care, not even my own son and only child. I tried calling him and he did not even answer. It seems he is too busy running the company I've built for him.

Arek: Sorry to hear that. Let me help you up.

Setting the scene:

Arek helps the old man rise to his feet and picks up the crutches for him.

Nedved: I appreciate your help and I have decided just now to do something that may seem crazy to you at first, but it makes more sense to me than anything I've done in the past ten years.

Nedved continues: I want to sign my will over to you and you will be my only beneficiary. I have no one left except my ungrateful son who is already the owner of a yacht, three homes and a Ferrari all courtesy of me and the business he took over after I stepped down from the board.

Arek: Are you alright right now? Did you hit your head or am I hearing you right?

Nedved: I am fine and as serious as ever... However, before my passing and the will being given to you I want to ask you one favor. You see, my company I built from the ground up and gave to my son is dying and I need to find out why. I also want you to find out why its rival is doing so well recently. I fear insider trading or information sharing is going on from within my company and so want you to find out what it is.

Nedved continues: You will investigate this rival company that all of a sudden gained huge strides and successes within the past year while my continued to go further to the ground each year. You will try to talk to people within this company and also join it as an employee.

Arek: Wow that is a lot to ask but... I...

Nedved: my inheritance for you will be in the millions of dollars so I will make it worth it for you, plus I am giving you my company. After my death the will is going to show that the company will be assigned to you and my son will have to step down or have a different role other than the main one he currently has, which is CEO. you will be running it.

Arek: That is a lot to take in for a simple walk after being kicked out of a bar for not being able to pay my bar tab.

Nedved: It should show you how life can change in an instant and as a person you can find yourself in an entire new reality with new meaning in a fortnight with the right amount of luck or simply showing kindness to a stranger who fell down.

Arek: It was nothing. And yes, I will find out what is happening to your company and try to learn about it as well as the rival company you want information about.

Nedved: Ok, great. And besides what I asked you to do, you will have to sober up and throw away that booze if you want the company and the will.

Arek: No problem. Now at least I have motivation to quit and focus on some positive aspects life can bring.

Full Scene change (came blacks out and resumes in another location)

Setting the scene:

Arek goes to his apartment to think things over and sleep off both the booze still ringing in his brain and opens the door to his girlfriend Ann waiting for him on the couch.

Ann: Oh there you are. I've been waiting for you for over an hour. What is it this time... got kicked out of another bar?

Arek: Tonight was one crazy night. Either an old man played a good trick on me or my life is about to change in an extreme way and for the better.

Ann: Finally some good news. So tell me what happened?

Arek: well it started out like most nights lately, me being at the bar and drunk as always without a care for the world. But...

Ann: Do not tell me someone offered you money or gave you a job opportunity? Again one of those situations that never pan out that you get excited about isnt it?

Arek: Why are you always so negative and do not believe in me or that my luck could turn and change for the better one day?

Ann: The only reason I am still with you is because you are the only person to make me feel the way I do and want to get up in the morning but every time someone gets your hopes up it only drives you further into despair.

Arek: I know but I cannot give up and still see good in people or still believe that some opportunities will not be empty promises and maybe pan out for once. I need to be with me though and not drive me down on this one...

Scene change:

Moving away from conversation the camera pans out as he is explaining to his girlfriend in their apartment what happened exactly and the scene cuts to his parents talking about their son Arek while he is being compared to his younger brother they adore and use him as a verbal punching bag of sorts.

Break or end for now

---

I can go on and set the stage for the rest of the video where Arek will start asking questions about the rival company and aka his girlfriend to help him find info and see if anyone is hiring there as a way in and how he will find out it is the old man's son who is driving his company to the ground.

Hope you enjoyed this script and I will have a chance to work further on it for you if it is accepted.

The story again aims to show that through perseverance and not giving up our kicks can change at the whim or randomly one day so keep going and be positive, especially as a young person. It will also show not to worry about what others, even one's own parents think of you and not to stop believing in yourself because in the end you may be laughing last.